Voice Artist and VON Business Development Manager

The VoiceOver Network is consistently pushing to find the world's best talent and welcome them into our community. We are exceptionally privileged to have a membership base of voice actors, directors, production and casting directors worldwide. We fundamentally want to create networking opportunities that otherwise wouldn't be accessible due to the challenges we experience in our industry. Accompanying that we want to ensure every voice actor worldwide has a place to go to feel supported in the hopes of booking more work and developing a dream-lead career in creativity and voiceover. We are pioneering daily to create new workshop opportunities in every single genre of the industry so voiceover artists worldwide can explore, invest and experience all corners of the industry.

On a personal level, I have had the privilege of learning from the performers who inspired me to get into this industry back when I was just a kid. Now, this level of education and support has allowed me to make a full-time living in an industry I love. Whether it is animation, video games, commercials, promo, narration, audiobooks, or any other genre you are passionate about The VoiceOver Hour creates the opportunity for you to participate in a supportive community that will create networking, training, and casting opportunities. I've had the honour of working with voiceover actor Gerard Caster over the past few months and I'm excited for you to read his feedback next!

KAMEHAMEHAAAA AND BEYOND!

Career-changing workshops are happening every week over at VON! With home studios now becoming the norm, I don't think there could possibly be a better time to jump on and connect with like-minded talent. Earlier in February, I had the opportunity to read for Sean Schemmel in a workshop type scenario. Sean is the iconic voice of heroes such as Goku & Lucario. Prior to this, I was introduced to Chris Sabat in the same setting. Chris is the voice of Vegeta & All Might as well as many more! Next was Bob Bergen who voices the phenomenal, comical, and amazing Porky Pig!

During the workshop, Sean pulled no punches (as expected) and told us exactly what we needed to work on with each read. This type of constructive feedback is essential for progressing! We pushed through our limits and turned good reads into believable reads. By the end of Sean's workshop, I knew what I had to do to elevate my acting career to the next level. The entire experience was very humbling and inspirational. I'm happy I get this opportunity to connect with talent worldwide and I can't wait to see what the future holds within The VoiceOver Network family!
